2018: Discovering Henry Clay: Important American Glass Architectural Elements Uncovered in the Old Sturbridge Village Museum Collection

Stephen M. Brewer Theater, Visitor Center, Old Sturbridge Village, MA at 11:00 am

An architectural assemblage featuring an attic window, two side lights, and a transom containing Henry Clay cup plates will be the subject of a lecture led by American glass expert Jeffrey S. Evans. Presented in conjunction with his recent Antiques and Fine Art article, "Important American Glass Architectural Elements in the Collection of Old Sturbridge Village," Evans will reveal the dynamic story behind these objects as they traveled from a home in Somers, Connecticut to Village Founder A.B. Wells' Southbridge, MA mansion and finally to the Museum Collection of Old Sturbridge Village. Click photograph for further detail. Price for the lecture and tour was included in the Village admission.
